“Put Away The Lawnmower Charlie, Those Are Trees Out There”

Keynote Speaker

Vicki Hitzges

Some speakers entertain. Some inspire. Vicki does both and more.

She makes people laugh. Or cry. She makes them think. She galvanizes, energizes, electrifies.

Researchers at the Carnegie Foundation devoted a great deal of time and money studying what makes people successful. Their serious, fact-based findings have been translated into a laugh-provoking, motivational presentation. This high-energy keynote will give you tips you can use immediately to attract and keep clients, close sales, and build strong relationships at the office and at home. You'll learn specific rapport-building techniques you can use right away. You'll benefit personally and professionally from attending and both you and your organization will profit from what you will learn. You'll enjoy the fast-pace and the practical take-aways.
