Lolita - BIO

Lolita, “the Cocktail Girl,” is known worldwide for her creative and fun collectible drink-ware, designed for each person’s unique personality. She is a designer who made her mark in the commercial world creating designs paired with delicious drink recipes, appetizers and exciting party planning ideas. Now her multi-million dollar line has expanded into other beverage glasses, acrylic products, napkins, candles, clothing and accessories. With over $67,000,000 in retail sales worldwide in 2009 alone, the Lolita brand, led by her artistic and marketing talents, continues to climb high even in difficult economic times.

Her creations can be found in over ten thousand retail locations worldwide. She was voted a “Woman to Watch” in Entrepreneur’s Hot Issue, 2008, featured on a multitude of blogs and radio shows and seen mixing fabulous concoctions in local and national TV shows such as Better TV, FOX Business News and Good Morning America. Soon to launch her first book, Martini Moments, Lolita has become the hottest gift brand in America today. She’s autographed her glasses for countless celebrities and her own fans. Armed with prior work experience in marketing, fashion, and licensing and combining her inherent creativity and lust for life, Lolita’s latest venture has all the ingredients in the recipe for success. She maintains two design studios, one in her native south, and one in Providence, where she can be creative on a daily basis when not on the road.
